DISCUSSION:

The Joint Statement between the Department of Public Welfare and the Department of Aging was developed by the Joint Committee on Aging and Mental Retardation in conjunction with the two Departments to promote the linkage of the two service systems. The Joint Statement is being distributed simultaneously under this Mental Retardation Bulletin and to the aging network under their Aging Information Memorandum. It should serve as a guide for cooperative action by those who work at all levels in the two service and advocacy networks.

COMMENTS AND QUESTIONS REGARDING THIS BULLETIN SHOULD BE DIRECTED TO:

Ms, Phyllis Welborn, Office of Mental Retardation, Room 512 Health and Welfare Building, Harrisburg, PA 17120, telephone (717) 783-5058.

The basic intent of the Statement is to provide a framework for future efforts by the Department of Public Welfare and the Department of Aging to develop and implement joint initiatives to improve services to older persons with mental retardation, to foster a clearer understanding and awareness by those who work within the two service networks of the special needs of the aging and those with mental retardation, and of effective intervention strategies and programs to address those needs and to promote the full participation of older persons with mental retardation in the life of the community.

The mental retardation and aging networks are strongly encouraged to review and consider this document to seek ways to carry out its objectives at the local level and to promote input for systems improvement at all levels.

The Joint Statement is also transmitted through Aging Information Memorandum No, 91-22-11.

JOINT STATEMENT
ON
OLDER PERSONS WITH MENTAL RETARDATION
BY
THE PENNSYLVANIA DEPARTMENT OF AGING
AND
THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WELFARE

BACKGROUND

The Department of Aging

The Department of Aging is the single state unit designated under the Older Americans Act of 1965, as amended, to serve as an effective and visible advocate for older persons and to develop and administer a comprehensive plan of services to meet the needs of older persons in this State. Its responsibilities and activities are directed to advancing the well-being of Pennsylvania's older citizens. Designed for advocacy, planning, training, research and the administration of Federal and State funds, the Department oversees many services and benefits to older people. Most of these programs are provided through contracts with 52 local Area Agencies on Aging designated by the Secretary on Aging to serve a planning and service area made up of one or more counties.

The Department of Public Welfare

The Department of Public Welfare, through its Office of Mental Retardation, supports and administers a comprehensive array of services to address the needs of Pennsylvanians with mental retardation. Services include community residential and non-residential programs administered by County Mental Health/Mental Retardation Programs, intermediate care facilities for people, with mental retardation (ICFs/MR), family support, consultation and education services. The Office of Mental Retardation directly supervises services for people in 13 State Mental Retardation Centers and Units across the state.

The community mental retardation program, established under the Pennsylvania Mental Health and Mental Retardation (MH/MR) Act of 1966, provides services and supports to enable persons with mental retardation to live successfully in the community and in State Centers and Units. Community Services available include, but are not limited to, residential options, early intervention for children, family support, adult developmental services, case management and employment services.

A Mutual Responsibility

The Department of Aging and the Department of Public Welfare, through its Office of Mental Retardation, provide programs and services under different mandates and funding resources. Historically, this resulted in the development of two distinct service systems which, in earlier years, did not often encounter the needs of older persons with mental retardation.

Now, there is an increasing number of older adults in Pennsylvania with mental retardation. According to some estimates, among Pennsylvanians with mental retardation in 1980, there were over 21,000 of age 60 or above. That number is expected to increase to approximately 29,000 by the year 2030. For people in this group, the challenges of mental retardation are compounded by the real and perceived problems which accompany the aging process. There is a need for greater coordination and collaboration between the aging and mental retardation service networks in order to assure greater availability and accessibility to the support necessary to enable older persons with mental retardation to attain and maintain emotional well being and a life in the community at the highest possible level of independence.

Without any attempt to reduce their uniquely separate roles and program responsibilities, the Department of Aging and the Department of Public Welfare affirm a mutual responsibility for the development and the promotion of stronger linkages between the two service networks at all levels - Federal, State and local. This responsibility derives from the following values shared by the aging and mental retardation networks:

People who are served by the two networks should expect:

- to be treated with respect and dignity;
- to have a positive, valued image in the community, free from discrimination;
- to have choices, opportunities and options; and
- to have easy access to a coordinated array of services.

People who use services provided by the two networks should expect them to be:

- relevant and meaningful;
- easily accessible and available;
- coordinated with other service systems;
- provided in the least restrictive environment and in a manner which enhances independence; and
- supportive of families and caregivers.

INTENT OF THE STATEMENT

The intent of this statement is to provide a framework for future efforts by the Department of Aging and the Department of Public Welfare to develop and implement joint initiatives to improve services to older persons with mental retardation, to foster a clearer understanding and awareness by those who work within the two service networks of the special needs of the aging and those with mental retardation and of effective intervention strategies and programs to address those needs and to promote the full participation of older persons with mental retardation in the life of the community.

The Department of Aging and the Department of Public Welfare agree to work together to develop and implement initiatives in support of the goals and objectives outlined below and to undertake other collaborative activities which promote the independence and well-being of older persons with mental retardation.
