

PACTT Affiliate Public Report

Agencies affiliated with the Pennsylvania Academic, Career and Technical Training (PACTT) Alliance have voluntarily agreed to meet standards in one or more of the following areas: Academics; work related services; and job skills training. Through their efforts, the affiliated agencies work to support goals outlined in the Advancing Competency Development: A White Paper for Pennsylvania and Pennsylvania’s Juvenile Act. These include, but are not limited to:

- Helping youth improve their chances of having a successful educational experience.
- Developing a set of study and learning skills and basic reading, writing, and math skills.
- Helping youth to catch up in school and advance in school to the highest possible level of academic achievement.
- Developing workforce skills for getting a job, keeping a job, and achieving promotion.
- Developing workforce programs that promote economic self-sufficiency, are grounded in principles of youth development, and connected to further education and long-term career opportunities.
- Helping older youth improve their chances of being economically self-sufficient after high school.
- Developing competencies that will enable youth to become responsible and productive members of the community.

Limitations of this report should be noted. Data included in the report includes only those youth that were determined by the affiliate to have successfully completed the program and were recommended for discharge. In addition, academic data does not include youth having received services for less than 90 days. As a result, the average length of stay for youth in the affiliation areas may differ. Data included in the report was based on self-reported information provided by the affiliated agency. Reports were generated, using the PACTT database, by the affiliate and reviewed by the affiliate for accuracy prior to being posted for public viewing.

Program Description:

The Community Intensive Supervision Program (CISP) is operated by the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County, Family Division-Juvenile Section and has been in operation since June of 1990. CISP functions as an alternative to institutionalization for repeat juvenile offenders, and starting in January of 1997, CISP has functioned as an aftercare program for youth released from institutional placements. These offenders have continued to challenge the resources, both human and financial of the Court. The Court continues to experience an increase in total referrals and an increase in the severity of offenses. Institutional beds are filled to capacity across the state. Institutions (both public and private) have created waiting lists for counties wishing to commit youth to residential programs. In an effort to address these problems, the Court has developed the Community Intensive Supervision Program. Also, it is a statistically proven fact that youth exiting institutional placements have a tendency to recidivate at a high rate within the first six months after release. Therefore, it made sense that CISP would expand the use of the CISP Program for aftercare services.

The CISP Program provides the Court with a community-based alternative to residential care for selected chronic juvenile offender, and also serves as an aftercare program for youth released from institutions. A full range of programming, including drug screening, is offered in four specially designed neighborhood centers during afternoon and evening hours, seven days a week. Supervision of youth continues throughout the night by use of an active electronic monitoring system. In addition to traditional probation department personnel, the program is staffed by paraprofessional “Community Monitors” who are adult residents of the same neighborhoods in which the youth reside. These individuals act as role models to encourage competency development and promote accountability and victim reparative efforts. It
